

SENATE ADDS 18 MONTHS TO SERVICE PERIOD

CITY SEWERS ARE OUTDATED, COUNCIL SAYS

One-Mill Levy Viewed As Most Economical Way Of Financing

NEEDED TO FINISH BROADWAY PROJECT

Present Sewers Designed For Conditions of 25 Years Ago

Two special issues will be on the ballots at the primary election Tuesday. One of them will be a one-mill levy, for two years, to finance sewer construction and repair in the city.

Here's What Happened

Here is the sewer system setup in brief: No new trunk lines have been built in the last 25 years. Continued street improvements and the opening of new streets have increased the rate of water run-off tremendously.

Some parts of the present systems were so constructed that they have caved in in some instances; are clogged, in others; or are partly clogged, necessitating rebuilding or repair.

The present program provides for the opening of new outlets into the county ditch and main trunk line up Broadway, intersecting the Gahanna sewer on Filbert st.

This is a WPA project and is considered of such vital importance to the city that it is included in the federal defense program. About $100,000 is the city's share necessary to complete the project.

It has been divided into three sections. The first took in the work in the county ditch area and under the railroad tracks. The second included the section from the tracks to Aetna st. The third, if funds are provided, will see the completion of the sewer from Aetna st. to the proposed junction with the Gahanna sewer.

No Money for Completion No money is now available for the third section. It must be provided either through the proposed levy or through the issuance, by the city, of bonds.

Passage of the levy, it is emphasized, would not only take care of the Broadway sewer project in its entirety but would also furnish funds for other vital sewer improvements in different areas of the city.

On various occasions in recent years, fear has been felt that flood waters would stop production in several of the factories. Should it be necessary, at any time in the future, to stop production for this reason, it would be difficult to estimate the tremendous damage not

TWO LEAVE FOR ARMY AUG. 13

Salem, Columbiana Boys Constitute Board's No. 24 Call

Ralph (Bud) Holroyd of 1090 N. Ellsworth ave. and George B. Weaver of 390 E. Fairfield ave., Columbiana, will comprise the Salem draft board's No. 24 call for two men next Wednesday.

The quota is the lowest single call ever received by the local board. The pair will board a Penn-Ohio bus at the Stark Terminal at 9:45 a. m. on that date, to go to the Cleveland central armory for army induction.

The Salem draft board will meet next Tuesday night to begin classification of the 185 district draftees who registered on July 1. All of the new selectees have received their questionnaires. A majority of them have been filled out and returned to the board.

Names of the new men were integrated into the board's present draft roster on a ratio of 13 to one, it was announced.

PREDICTS FDR VETO WILL BE OVERRIDDEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Chairman Cartwright (D-Okla.) of the house roads committee predicted the house would vote today by a three to one margin to override President Roosevelt's veto of legislation authorizing expenditure of $320,000,000 for defense highway purposes.

Senators voted 57 to 19 yesterday to override the veto, and Cartwright forecast representatives would vote along the same lines. In his veto message President Roosevelt objected especially to provisions in the legislation for $125,000,000 to be apportioned among the states in accordance with existing federal aid legislation to be used for correcting critical deficiencies in strategic highways.

20 C. & P. FREIGHT CARS ARE PILED UP

In an accident similar to one which occurred just northwest of Salem two weeks ago, 20 cars of a 50-car freight train jumped the tracks this morning one-half mile yards of East Rochester and piled three deep across the two tracks of the Cleveland-Pittsburgh right-of-way.

The accident was caused by a broken wheel flange. Passenger traffic was taken by bus this morning as railway officials estimated that two days will be required to clear the tracks of wreckage "piled high as a barn." Also be made on several hundred yards of track and roadbed which were damaged when the westbound train left the track.

SON OF DUCE IS KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Capt. Bruno Mussolini, 23, Perishes As Bomber Is Wrecked

TWO OTHER FLIERS GO DOWN IN SHIP

Had Always Followed His Father's Admonition To "Live Dangerously"

(By Associated Press) ROME, Aug. 7.—Captain Bruno Mussolini, 23, who abided by his father's admonition to "live dangerously," was killed today in the crash of a lone range bomber he was testing as commander of a detachment that was to use the plane. He died at 10 a. m. near Pisa, and four hours afterward the Rome radio announced his "glorious death at a post of combat."

Bruno was born April 22, 1918, at Milan while his father, as head of the young Fascist movement, was editing the newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia. Bruno was the premier's second son.

Mussolini Flies To Pisa

Il Duce, himself a pilot, flew at once to Pisa with his chief of air force, General Francisco Pricolo. Two other fliers—the second pilot and a mechanic—were killed in the crash while the remaining member of the eight-man crew were injured.

"This morning Captain Bruno Mussolini died gloriously near Pisa following an accident in the flight of an experimental plane," said the official announcement.

Thus ended a young life into which action in three wars had been jammed, along with the thrills of trans-Atlantic flight, air and motor racing.

In Ethiopia Bruno Mussolini bombed the armies of Haile Selassie. In Spain he bombed Alicante, Barcelona, Valencia and Cartagena and in the present war he loosed bombs over falling France and later took part in raids against the Greeks and, in other Mediterranean operations.

The last included, the Italian radio said, "risky" actions over the central Mediterranean, where Bruno showed "great daring," and scouting flights over Malta.

Abandons Role Of Objector As Urge For Duty Prevails

Lawrence Brooks, Salvation Army Officer, Finds Task Of Christian and Defender Compatible

Eager to perform his part in national defense, Lawrence Scott Brooks, 21, of Alliance, formerly of Salem, is forsaking the role of "conscientious objector" and will leave for military training in the United States Army Friday morning.

Having obtained his release from Civilian Public Service camp No. 8, near Marietta, Scott is home, making preparations to leave with the contingent of 11 selectees already designated by the Alliance-Lexington township draft board to fill its quota for call 23. He will be an addition to the quota.

Brooks, who was assistant corps officer for the Salvation Army in Salem before going to the camp for conscientious objectors June 23, says that "I was only in camp two hours when I went to the director and told him I wished to be released."

To Re-enter Ministry Brooks was a candidate for the ministry in the Salvation Army

WORLD DRIVE FOR CONQUEST BY NAZIS SEEN

Japs' Bid for Control of Thailand Part of Plan, U. S. Believes

FITS WITH GERMAN DEMANDS ON VICHY

Tremendous Scope of Axis Program Emphasized By Hull

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The United States government, it was learned today, believes that Japan's pressure bid for control of Thailand is part of a well-patterned Axis plan to seize control of the oceans and thereby dominate the world.

The latest Japanese moves were described as dovetailing perfectly with Germany's demands on Vichy for military and naval bases in French colonial possessions, particularly at Dakar.

Drive in Both Oceans

All evidence available, an informed source stated, points to a coordinated drive by Germany to control all strategic bases in the Atlantic, while Japan seizes similar objectives in the Pacific.

"When—and if—Germany and Japan accomplish that ambitious objective," a ranking official said, "the Axis powers could join forces across the southern oceans and dominate the seas, isolating the Americas for a coordinated attack from the Pacific and the Atlantic."

To win that "stranglehold on the world," it was pointed out, the Germans and Japanese must first seize the British and French strong points that dominate the world's seaways, and officials said that the aggressive plans now in motion have that objective.

Since Japan represents one of the jaws in the gigantic pincers movement, an authoritative source stated, Japanese encroachment in Indo-China and Thailand cannot be considered in the category of isolated aggression, but must be treated as a vital element in the Nazis' grand strategy.

Stiffen French, Warn Japan

For this reason, it was explained, the United States has assumed a forceful diplomatic policy designed both to stiffen French resistance to German demands and to warn

Red Army 'Ghost' Is Still Rattling In Lively Fashion

Loses 4-Million Men, Say Nazis, But Defense Continues

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE (Special News Service)

Well, one can only say about Nazism's claim of victory and wholesale destruction of Russian forces that the ghost of the Red army continues to rattle its chains in a remarkably lively manner.

On the face of the sweeping German announcement made yesterday the Muscovite position would seem to be catastrophic, what with an estimated 4,000,000 men killed and captured, and the vital center of the Red line opposite Moscow laid wide open. Let not only do the Bolsheviks deny these claims but their defense has been functioning in amazing fashion—and what's the answer to that?

All in all, the Nazis have rather laid themselves open to the query of whether Herr Hitler really has got hold of a sound bit of fruit or is holding a Dead sea apple which looks beautiful but turns to ashes in the mouth. Certainly it's difficult to reconcile the conflicting claims, and to make appearances fit yes-

BRITISH SET FOR JAPANESE

Imply U. S. Must Be Willing to Give More Than Economic Help

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Britain expects little Thailand to resist any Japanese invasion, and British aid in such event will hinge on the willingness of the United States to cooperate in strong measures, an authoritative source declared today.

The indication was that the United States must be willing to cooperate in more than an economic blockade of Japan if Britain is to give strong backing to Thailand.

Ready for Jap Thrust

That British imperial forces were making ready for any Japanese thrust into Thailand—which might be either or both a threat to Singapore or the Burma road lifeline of the Chungking Chinese government—was indicated by a Reuters agency dispatch from Singapore.

Quoting the Singapore office of the ministry of information, it said that in British Burma, and south China "all preparations are ready to smash any Japanese attempt to cut the Burma road or move further westward."

The British are looking toward a policy of British-American co-operation extending beyond diplomatic and economic measures, applicable not only to the possible situation of Thailand but to the entire Far East.

Thailand is in a "position of danger," a British informant said in an authoritative world military review. He added that the nation's army numbers but 50,000 and its equipment is limited but its air force "makes up in quality what it lacks in size."

SOLONS ADOPT AMENDMENT TO SET NEW LIMIT

Selectees, Guards, Enlisted Men, Reserves To Be Affected

18-MONTH PERIOD CAN BE EXTENDED

Administration Forces Defeat Attempt To Put Limit at One Year

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—With administration forces in command, the senate voted today to keep army selectees, national guardsmen, reserves and enlisted men in uniforms 18 months beyond their present active service periods.

Adopt Thomas Plan

After beating off a Republican-sponsored attempt yesterday to limit the extra duty requirement to one year, the chamber adopted an amendment by Senator Thomas (D-Utah) to pending legislation fixing the maximum service liability of selectees, guardsmen and reserves at 2 1/2 years, instead of the present 1 year. Men who enlisted for three years could be retained 4 1/2 years. The vote was 44 to 28.

Previously, sponsors had proposed that the citizen soldiers and regulars be kept in uniform for an indefinite period.

The Thomas amendment provided that congress could extend the additional 18-month period if it subsequently found it necessary to do so in the interest of national defense. It also could terminate the legislation by passage of a concurrent resolution.

Final senate approval of the revised measure was expected to follow swiftly.

Breaking Faith, Charge

In debate preceding the vote, Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) asserted that the legislation would "break faith with young men whose lips are sealed."

Opening the seventh day of debate on a measure to lengthen active duty periods by 18 months, the white haired Californian protested that the army's rank and file had been forbidden to express its opinion about the proposal.

How, he demanded, could the senators disregard a general understanding at the time of enactment of the Selective Service Act that draftees were to serve only 12 months?

THREE YOUTHS HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Two Salem boys and another from near Leetonia were injured at 9:20 p. m. Wednesday when their automobile struck the rear of another machine on the Ellsworth road, a half-mile north of the city limits, and overturned against a telephone pole.

Cortez E. Williams, 18, of R. D. 1, Leetonia, driver of the car in which the youths were riding and one of those hurt, was charged by state highway patrolmen with reckless driving.

Williams' machine, traveling south on the Ellsworth road, struck the rear of a car driven by Robert J. Walker, 44, of R. D. 4, Salem. Walker was uninjured.

Williams suffered a possible broken right shoulder. Dick Leaf, 12, of 269 Brooklyn ave., a passenger, received a lacerated ear. Charles Jackson, 18, of Walnut st., another occupant of the car, suffered a severe head bump and an injury to his hip and leg. They are in the Central Clinic.

Sheldon Leaf of 269 Brooklyn and Wayne Steffel of 181 Brooklyn, who also were riding with Williams, escaped unhurt, the patrol said.

A collision of automobiles driven by William J. Ager, 32, of Erie, Pa., and Lloyd Berresford, 41, of East Palestine at the junction of Routes 14 and 170 Wednesday morning, brought injuries to the East Palestine motorist.

Berresford was removed to South Side hospital at Youngstown, suffering from a chest injury and leg abrasions. Ager, who was said by the patrol to have crashed into the other car, was given a court citation.

DIG A LITTLE DEEPER

The tremendous majority by which the new tax bill passed the house of representatives probably reflected in the same proportion (more than 10 to 1) the feeling of the American public. Everybody kicks about paying taxes but at the same time everybody knows that the cost of national defense must be paid. A complete pay-as-you-go program in such times as these is impossible but most Americans want to come as close to this plan as the pocketbooks of the people will permit.

As the measure now stands, all excepting the lowest bracket of wage earners will pay more to the government but their payments still are only a dribble compared with the levies imposed on the people of most of the lands actively at war.

To make the payment even more painless the government now offers tax bonds which may be purchased during the year and used to pay the taxes when they become due. The idea is recommended to most of the public for it will lighten the blow next March if the thrifty taxpayer has put aside during the year, either in bonds or in budgeted savings, a part of the money he will be paying out next spring for the privilege of being a part of a strong America.

COME AND SEE US

The job of attracting tourists and business to the various states has become big business with an appropriation of $6,000,000 for this year and all but nine of the 48 states have set aside funds to be used in telling the rest of the nation about their beauties and their opportunities.

Ohio is down at the bottom of the 39 with an appropriation of $15,000, scarcely a drop in the bucket compared with the $825,000 which Florida uses to tell about its climate and its citrus industry or the $600,000 which Utah is spending to lure vacationists and visitors there.

Nearly all of the cooperating states can show by actual figures the benefits of the program. Arkansas, for example, reports that 5,000,000 tourists visited the state last year, and spent $96,000,000 while 174 new industries were established and 36 were expanded. Not all the benefits can be shown in dollars and cents. There is a deeper value in the knowledge which travel gives the people. Tourists are constantly finding out more about their country by travel and today's motor-minded public has a far greater realization of the greatness of America than did the last generation.

Money spent to encourage visiting between the states is a good business investment, the returns show, and at the same time it is a sound foundation for a broader Americanism.

AN EPIC IN HEROISM

It has been almost overlooked in the tumultuous world news on larger scale but the British defense of Tobruk will go down, when the history of the Hitler war is written, as one of the world's most inspiring examples of the bravery of determined men.

Tobruk, which the British took from the Italians in two weeks of siege and storm, was enveloped by the Italo-German forces when they swept back across north Africa but it was not taken. The enemy passed by, expected to return and take the town at their leisure.

They came back but Tobruk did not fall. Its defenses were weakened by the bombardment the English had given it, all access from land was cut off, it was open to bombings from the air, its defenders were tired from weeks of fighting, the weather was at its worst but the British held on. Much of the time their only line of supplies by way of the sea was menaced but they held the defense and the United Jack flew from the town's battered walls.

For 113 days Tobruk has been under fire. It has turned back desperate assault from land and has withstood heavy action from the air. Now, say the reports, tension is slackening. Hitler has called off at least part of his soldiers and has left the job to the Italians who fared so poorly in their earlier Libyan campaign. The dogged bravery of the defenders of Tobruk, it seems, is about to be crowned with the victory it deserves.

ONE UNITED FRONT

Japan's game in the orient has taken a sudden turn for the worse because of a new development in opposition diplomacy. Instead of taking on the Japanese individually, the tragic mistake of European sovereignities dealing with Germany, the United States, Great Britain and the Netherlands East Indies have formed a common defense.

Thus the Japanese find themselves confronted with the one arrangement that might have saved Europe from Nazi aggression—collaboration. Japan is being made to feel the full weight of oil combined opposition, ranging from termination of the United States as a silk market to the closing of its sources of oil in the Netherlands Indies, the United States and the British empire.

This does not mean, unfortunately, that the Japanese military clique which has carried Japan so far that retreat would mean loss of prestige is going to be made powerless. There is danger, according to close observers, that Japan's militarists will ruin the country rather than yield to the prospect of their personal ruin. So closely do they control every aspect of Japanese existence that they can do as they please. There are, rather than pull in their horns to avert a disaster they will court the disaster, because that way they have everything to gain and nothing to lose. Unless they can salvage victory out of their costly and bloody aggressions, they are ruined anyway.

But meanwhile there is nothing to be gained by trying to appease them. If they are determined to join the military issue, it should be on terms as favorable as possible to the three intended victims of their designs—the United States, Great Britain, the Netherlands Indies.

SUGAR IS PRODUCER OF ENERGY

Yields No Proteins, Vitamins or Minerals

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
How much sugar should a person eat a day?

"Hygeia," the health magazine of the American Medical association, says two tablespoonsful. This, of course, is for a normal person, not a subject of diabetes or obesity.

A pound of sugar provides 1,800 calories. That is nearly enough for a day's energy, but although sugar is a quick energizer it provides nothing else—no protein to replace loss, no vitamins, no minerals. It is a highly processed food and everything is taken out of it but the pure carbohydrate. Brown sugar has about the same qualities and effects. Molasses, not so highly processed, contains some minerals including iron.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

May Weaken Liver

Excessive eating of sugar, according to "Hygeia," may put a strain on the pancreas because the pancreas secretes a substance which is necessary to enable the body to utilize sugar. The excessive consumption of sugar may also weaken the protective power of the liver. Eating sugar alone will make one feel dull and bilious for this reason.

It is a good food in connection with other foods, but this emphasis on other foods is a warning for the youngsters who eat too much of it so they have no appetite for anything else.

Flickering Light

Does a flickering light, such as reading on the train or in a car, weaken the eyes?

It does no permanent damage to the eyes, but the constant adjustment causes muscle strain and headache. The comparison might be made to walking over very rough or uneven ground. In the course of time your legs would become very tired in all parts, but there would be no permanent damage. The energy required to do eye work in a flickering light is out of all proportion to any possible advantage to be gained. There are indeed some people whose eyes are of the kind that they should not attempt under any circumstances to do work or reading in a flickering light. In what way is Roquefort cheese different from other cheeses? Does it contain salt?

Roquefort cheese is made from sheep's milk. Its odor and flavor come from the implantation of a mold, Penicillium Glaucum. About every kind of cheese has some salt, the content of Roquefort being quite high—4-14 per cent. In making the best Roquefort the surface is rubbed with salt to prevent the too rapid development of the mold during the ripening period.

Appetizers To Start Meals

The underweight is thin because he usually has very little appetite. He has to work just as hard to eat without appetite as the overweight has to work not to eat with an appetite. Note that these meals begin with an appetizer—fruit, or thin soup.

Breakfast: Grapefruit, oatmeal with cream and sugar; hot biscuits with honey and butter; glass half milk and half cream.

Lunch: Bouillon; creamed chicken on toast; endive salad with French dressing; chocolate custard with whipped cream; two whole wheat muffins with butter; glass milk.

Dinner: Two poached eggs on mashed potatoes; buttered lima beans; lettuce salad with dressing; entire wheat bread with butter; apple tart; coffee with cream.

Evening: Egnog.

Approximate value—4,000 calories.

Tired Kidneys
Often Bring
Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Answer: 1. Heart murmurs in children are usually temporary, especially in a child as young as this. At any rate, they do not give any trouble until very late in adult life.

2. Diphtheria injections, in my opinion, are essential and harmless.

DEVELOPING FOOD FOR CHUTE TROOPS

Scientists Seek Rations Light-weight, Yet Nourishing

BY ROBERT INNES
United Press Staff Correspondent
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — University of Minnesota physiologists are conducting diet experiments in an attempt to supply army parachute troops with a day's rations weighing only a pound.

The experiments are being made on soldiers from Fort Snelling, Minn., by Dr. Ancel Keys, a professor of physiology at the university who is in charge of diet research for the army.

Contents of the streamlined rations are an army secret, but the food resembles biscuits and tablets. "Each ration weighs about a pound to 1 1/2 pounds," Keys said. "They are being developed with the idea that they are to be used in a 24-hour period. After that it is to be assumed that other rations would be dropped by parachute to the troops."

Soldiers Volunteer for Tests

The soldiers participating in the experiments come from Fort Snelling to the university laboratories where they eat the special rations and then are put through drills simulating actual combat conditions. Returning to the laboratories, the soldiers receive complete physical examinations in an attempt to determine the value of the special foods. Each of the soldiers, all of whom are volunteers, make one visit a week to the laboratory for 12 weeks.

The experiments are sponsored by the National Research Council, with the authorization of the quartermaster's department and the army surgeon-general. The experts are trying to find an army ration more nourishing than the famous "D" ration provided during the world war.

Food Research Lapsed

"In 1917, the army developed the 'D' ration, consisting of a chocolate bar weighing about a quarter of a pound and containing certain other food qualities," Keys said. "It is unsatisfactory, but a short time later the war ended and food research experts discontinued their attempts to find rations suitable for troops in combat."

Keys said preliminary experiments indicated that the army has over-emphasized the fat content in the rations.

"What we are looking for is a ration that will keep a soldier in good physical condition but is not bulky and weighs little while also being palatable," he said.

Several months ago Keys and his assistants tested the standard army post rations and found them entirely satisfactory for garrison troops.

Even through vitamin supplements, he said, "we are unable to increase the efficiency of the soldiers."

Bashful Bamboo

PHILADELPHIA—The zoo tried and to put on a nice birthday party for Bamboo, its 15-year-old gorilla whose 15 years in captivity is the longest recorded for any gorilla. But Bamboo refused to cooperate. He wrecked a table containing a specially-made birthday cake, and instead chewed on a new straw hat, then he threw watermelon slices at visitors.

PLEADS FOR HELP FOR SMALL PLANTS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Rep. Lawrence Thom, Canton, O. Democrat, has addressed to each member of congress letters urging them to support his demand for government action to help small industries affected adversely by the defense program.

He requested his colleagues to submit to him the names of companies which might be forced to close because of a lack of materials or because of inability to get government contracts. He said many small plants in Ohio were affected.

Thom declared that 56 large corporations had received nearly 75 per cent of all army and navy defense orders.

He told the house in a speech that priorities on raw materials were strangling the small producer and causing serious unemployment. Thom declared by all rules of equity the government owed the little fellows a chance to live.

No Excitement

BETHLEHEM, Pa. — A warning to avoid excitement because of heart trouble didn't mean a thing to Mrs. Ethel Sherer when she was threatened by a three-foot rattlesnake.

Encountering the reptile while returning from blackberry picking, she held its head down with a pointed stick while her daughter Dorothy clubbed it to death.

desire to enter the Army, "red tape" prevented his release at Marietta until Monday. Brooks said he feels it his duty as an American citizen to enter training and will serve willingly as long as Uncle Sam needs him. "It will probably be kind of hard to get back on your feet again, but I won't be the only one."

18 Denominations
With Brooks on hand, there were 46 in the Marietta camp. Eighteen different denominations were represented, with 23 of them Methodists.

Brooks spent the first four weeks working in the kitchen and the last two in the field, where the work consists of pulling weeds in the state nursery near the camp, located six miles east of Marietta.

As nearly as Brooks could learn, the prevailing sentiment among the objectors in the Marietta camp is against bearing arms under any circumstances. The objectors pay the government at the rate of $33 a month for their stay in camp, a fee that is borne by the churches, in most cases. Each enrollee then gets $1.50 in canteen scrip. Brooks plans to reimburse the camp for his stay out of his $21 a month from the Army.

Based on the successful stage play, "The Gentle People," showing at the State Friday and Saturday, with Thomas Mitchell, John Qualen, John Garfield and Ida Lupino in the principal roles.

The picture, a story of two kindly contented men whose peaceful lives are suddenly menaced by a young gangster, the excitement-hungry daughter of the one, and his hypochondriac wife, the picture is remarkable for the fine performances of Mitchell, Qualen, Alene MacMahon as the nagging wife, and Eddie Albert as the unimaginative boy friend of the daughter.

When Garfield attempts to extort "protection" money from the two men, Qualen and Mitchell, who have saved to buy a fishing boat, he begins his march toward success. He promises a glittering future to the daughter while he forces her father to give up his dream of a lifetime.

The two "gentle people" at length rebel and their retribution is dramatic and swift. Showing tonight at the State for the last times is "Ringside Maize," featuring Ann Sothern, George Murphy, Robert Sterling, Nathalie Thompson and Margaret Moffatt.

The Ohio experiment station will observe potato day Aug. 12. During the forenoon the potato experiments on new varieties, fertilizer, and soil management will be explained. During the afternoon there will be two general themes for discussion: The new Ohio potato marketing program, and the control of potato diseases. For this subject, Dr. J. G. Leach of the West Virginia experiment station has been selected as speaker.

Orchard day will be observed by the experiment station Aug. 15. In the afternoon, former Governor Lloyd Stark of Missouri will be one of the principal speakers. Mr. Stark is a prominent orchardist and nurseryman. During the forenoon there will be tours through the station orchards where the following timely subjects will be discussed: Spraying to prevent fruit dropping; sun coloring; food value of fruit; the causes and correction for irregular bearing; and some new developments in handling stone fruits.

In addition to the formal program this year, the station will have numerous displays and exhibits, one of which will be a disease and insect clinic where growers can bring specimens for identification. Then there will be a grafting and budding demonstration. In connection with orchard day, there will also be a program on ornamental planting and flowers, and the quick freezing process for preserving fruits and vegetables.

The headquarters for potato day and orchard day will be 2½ miles southeast of Wooster on U. S. Route 250. A number of local potato growers and fruit growers are planning to attend these meetings.

BRITISH SEEKING AID IN THAILAND

This source refused flatly to say that Britain would help Thailand, pinning the answer to that question on the United States' attitude.

Warns Japanese
In Melbourne, the Australian navy minister, William M. Hughes, asserted that it was Japan's to decide whether there was to be peace or war in the Pacific.

"Do they (the Japanese) think Australia can look on these movements which Japan is making in other countries—movements threatening the very foundations of the empire and Australian interests in the Far East—and do nothing?" he asked.

Days have passed since it was first reported in London that Japan, with new footholds in southern French Indo-China, was demanding military bases in Thailand along with economic concessions.

In today's military review, the London informant said that Japan had 50,000 troops in southern Indo-China and was occupying eight Indo-Chinese airfields, one 700 miles from Singapore and another less than 250 miles from Bangkok, Thailand's capital.

The Singapore fortress and naval base was said to have an air force superior in quality to any that Japan could muster and that an attack there would tax Japan's aerial resources to the utmost.

Civil War Breaks Out Again: Natchez Garden Clubs Fight

NATCHEZ, Miss., Aug. 7.—(The Special News Service)—Some things are brewed at Natchez tea tables that can't be handled in porcelain cups.

First it was the big-scale business developed by society women of this 235-year-old city. They did it by donning hoopskirts and staging an annual pilgrimage for tourists to gaze at the vestiges of old south opulence in Natchez' pre-civil war mansions.

Now it is the fight between two factions of Natchez society over the business, and the blowoff may come Aug. 12 when Chancellor R. W. Cutler begins hearing the case of the Natchez Garden club versus the Pilgrimage Garden club.

Fall To Patch It Up
The chancellor hopefully has ordered several delays in the case with the recommendation that "you ladies compose your difficulties for the good of Natchez". But spokesmen for both sides say they aren't budging an inch, and the chancellor says the present delay is the last.

Natchez bystanders are predicting tourists coming to next spring's pilgrimage will see a civil war more in keeping with the Blitz era than with the 1860 costumes the participants will be wearing.

They look for the two groups, who until this year conducted their separate pilgrimages at different times, to go into open competition for the tourist trade with simultaneous programs and all the weapons of publicity and persuasion.

A three-day overlap of this year's pilgrimages was the incident which brought the fight to a head, but its origins go back five years.

The pilgrimage idea was born in 1931 when a garden club for visiting women was rained out, and the Natchez Garden club instead took the guests through some of the mansions cotton kings had built when Natchez was the capital of a vast plantation area whose prosperity seemed everlasting.

Costumes Are Added
So enthusiastic were the visitors that the club next year organized a regular tour. Hoopskirted costumes were added, genuine ante-bellum bedrooms were opened to paying guests, Confederate balls and choirs of Negro spiritual singers organized. The pilgrimage developed into a two-week re-creation of the bygone life Natchez still dreamed of and the visitors loved.

So far, fine, but a quarrel arose between some house-owners and the club. Some owners seceded, taking with them 18 of the 25 houses originally shown, and in 1937 organized the Pilgrimage Garden club to promote a second pilgrimage. New members joined both groups and soon each was showing about 20 houses.

There was some coolness between members of the rival clubs, but relations were not too bad, until the clubs turned up with overlapping pilgrimage dates. Each said the other was responsible, and there were some pretty harsh words passed around.

Then the Natchez Garden club went into court asking an injunction against the Pilgrimage club and damages because of the overlapping tours.

Now Chancellor Cutler is the middle man.

MUSSOLINI'S SON KILLED IN CRASH

Leaves Wife, Child
Bruno was married in 1938 to Gina Ruberti. They had one child, Marina, now 17 months old. The death leaves Premier Mussolini with four children, Countess Edda Ciano, 30, wife of Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano; Anna Maria, 11; Vittorio, 23, and Romano, 13.
The Italian radio announcer, breaking the news to the nation, said that Bruno would be "considered as having fallen for his country." He always had "lived dangerously," the broadcaster said, calling him "one of the most representative members of Fascist youth."
He showed "a high sense of sacrifice as a volunteer fighter in Spain's anti-Bolshevik war," the announcer added. In that conflict, Bruno won medals for valor.
Bruno also piloted planes for Italy in the Ethiopian war in 1935-36 and the current European war. Little had been known of his activities in the present war until the disclosure that he had died as a test pilot.
Then it was told that he had been in action against France on the western front last year, in the Mediterranean theater, and on the Albanian and Greek fronts.
When Bruno was 19 he was making frequent flights, his hands itching for the controls. He obtained his pilot's license when he was 16.
When Fascist Italy started on her path toward empire in 1935 Bruno and his brother, Vittorio, volunteered and became officers in East Africa. There was a bombing-combat squadron, The Desperati.

Japan against further military adventures in the south Pacific before it is too late.
Secretary of State Hull emphasized the tremendous scope of the Axis plan, it was pointed out, when he declared on Monday that the recent developments in Europe and Asia provided "the most clinching demonstration" that "a world movement of conquest by force" was in progress.
State department officials also cited several previous formal pronouncements by the secretary in which he condemned would-be conquerors for their collaboration in aggression and asserted that they "have as their fixed objective the securing of control of the high seas."

RED ARMY 'GHOST' STILL BATTLING
Loses 4-Million Men, Say Nazis, But Defense Continues
terday's epic from Hitler's headquarters.
Still, we can't dismiss the whole matter with a wave of the hand merely because it has peculiarities.
We must note that the German communists isn't a record of the past few days but is a history of the seven weeks war. It presumably is published partly to meet the disappointment of the German public in the slow arrival of the promised Nazi victory. It is calculated to sustain the German reputation at arms. It undoubtedly is meant to stiffen Japan's attitude toward Britain and the United States.
The estimate by Nazi spokesmen that the Russians have lost close to 3,000,000 killed seems fantastic, as the officials themselves admit. If this figure is true for the defenders, what must it be for the Germans who, under normal expectancy, would have much heavier losses because they are on the offensive.

SEWERS OUTDATED, COUNCIL ASSERTS

only to the plants themselves but the loss to Salem citizens in wages. Succeeding steps contemplated by council upon completion of the Broadway sewer are extensions to relieve the Centennial park, Ohio ave., and postoffice areas; relief for Ellsworth ave. and Butternut run section; and the territory including Newgarden st and the Electric Fur-race plant.
The one-mill levy, which would operate for two years, would raise about $13,000 a year, depending upon tax collections, and would enable the city to carry out most of this program.
Most Economical Means
Councilmen say.
"The levy is the most economical way of financing, embodying the pay-as-you-go principle and giving the tax payers full value for their money."
"Definitely, the city must complete the Broadway sewer and the necessary extensions to protect our factories, which mean jobs and income for citizens of Salem."
"If the levy does not pass, we must sell bonds, which mean interest charges, advertising costs and increased tax burdens. Voters will save money for themselves and help insure their jobs against stoppage by floods by voting for the levy."

Silk Manufacturers Meet In Washington

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Silk manufacturers and representatives of their employees assembled here today hopeful of remedying some of the confusion into which the industry was thrown last week by the government order abruptly freezing all silk stocks.
However, a survey of hosiery manufacturers indicated that in two months or less American women would find the retail supply of silk stockings exhausted and would be shopping for other types of hose.
The conference was called, in part, to discuss changeovers in knitting processes which would assure continued glamour for the feminine American ankle, but with fibers other than silk.
Another big problem was to keep down unemployment as a result of the drastic changes made necessary by the freezing order and the consequent dwindling supply of silk.
Today's conference was called by Sidney Hillman, associate director of the Office of Production Management, Leon Henderson, administrator of the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply, and Donald M. Nelson, OPM director of purchases.

GOLFERS BATTLE IN BLIND BOGEY

Sixty-Four Entered In Play Which Precedes Wednesday Clam Bake
Playing in perfect weather and with greens and fairways in excellent shape, 64 entries battled in a special clam bake blind bogey at the Salem Golf club yesterday. And when it was all over there were 19 people tied among the first five places!
First place winners, with a net of 71, were Clifford Greenstein, O. A. Naragon, E. W. Mellinger and Joseph Connors. Second, with a net of 74, were R. S. Hostetler and G. A. Nelson.
M. C. Cope, Robert Wright, R. W. Alvis and Twing Seeds were tied for third with a common net score of 80, while Dr. F. R. Crow-ley was the lone contestant claiming fourth prize. He had a net of 70.
Seven golfers tied for fifth, each with a net of 77. They were Vincent Judge, Chester Gow, L. W. Smith, Glen Harding, W. W. Thornton, Lester Kille and Henry Reese.
D. F. Schilling won the low gross, shooting a 75, while Albert Alcroft took the low gross among pros with a 72. John Hoy was high gross man with 119 and Carl Wonn had high hole score of 10.

THREATEN STRIKE BY RAVENNA AFL

RAVENNA, Aug. 7.—The $70,000,000 Ravenna shell-loading plant today was threatened with a walk-out of 700 AFL truck drivers as a result of 20 members' demands for a pay increase.
Union spokesmen said the 20 members, employed as operators of large earth-moving machines called "rakes," sought a 20-cent hourly increase in their 80-cent wages.
Other members of the union employed at the arsenal are not asking raises but might go out in sympathy of "uke" operators' requests are not met, spokesmen added.
Edward Murphy, international union organizer from Cleveland, and John English, international auditor from Indianapolis, were expected to confer later today with representatives of the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co., contractor on the arsenal, in an effort to prevent a walkout.

Penniless Marriage

FORT WORTH, Tex.—The nervous young man fumbled in his pockets a moment, then ruefully admitted: "Judge, I haven't got a nickel—what does it cost to get married?" Justice of the Peace Hurley grinned, agreed that in that case it could be done for nothing.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Mr. and Mrs. James Stockman made 34 cents profit when two thieves looted their apartment. Stockman grappled with one man and tore a pocket from the intruder's coat. As the men fled, out rolled $200 worth of Stockman's jewelry and 34 cents belonging to the thief.

How One Women Lost 20 Pounds of FAT Lost Gained

When your bowels and kidneys fail to perform their work correctly your system cannot throw off the waste materials and digestion often becomes deranged—you lose energy and activity. Perhaps before you realize it you're losing your appeal and getting objectionably fat. Take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of water every morning half an hour before breakfast, cut out pastry, fatty meats—and go light on white bread, potatoes, butter and cream. In three weeks get on the scales and see how many pounds of fat have vanished; notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin seems clearer and eyes brighter—you feel younger in body and keener in mind. Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts (a famous English formula) plain or new effervescent—sparkling—pleasant, at leading druggists everywhere; lasts 4 weeks and is inexpensive. Money back if not fully satisfied.

Army Rations Classified Into Five Different Categories

BY IRVIN LISAGOR
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO — Army recruits gain on an average of 10 pounds during their first three to four weeks of training, reports Mary I. Barbour, food consultant for the quarter-master corps.

In normal times, with the mess sergeant buying his supplies from local merchants and the post commissary and making his own menus, a soldier eats for approximately 44 cents a day—and well, too.

"The small percentage of men who resent selective service, who are homesick, who have not been able to make the adjustment from civilian to military are the ones who do not put on weight," Miss Barbour said.

Rations in Five Categories

Army rations are classified into five broad categories to cover every emergency—the garrison ration for normal times, and rations A, B, C, and D.

The main difference between the garrison and A ration is that in the latter, devised for war or an emergency, the food is purchased by quartermasters of the post instead of each individual mess sergeant and supplied to all camps in their area.

Miss Barbour refers to Ration B as the reserve ration, made up entirely of non-perishable foods. Every post has a sufficient quantity to feed the men in case perishable supplies should be shut off.

Marching Food in Cans

Troops on the march get Ration C, which consists of six cans for one day of food. Three contain meat, one each meat—meat and vegetable stew for breakfast, meat and beans for dinner, meat and vegetable hash for supper. Each of the other three cans contains five biscuits, soluble coffee, sugar, and a chocolate wafer.

Ration D is a four-ounce chocolate bar soldiers can carry in their pockets for emergency use. It consists of chocolate, sugar, dried milk, oat flour and thimbin, and represents 600 calories.

Miss Barbour disclosed that rations for parachute and ski troops are being developed.

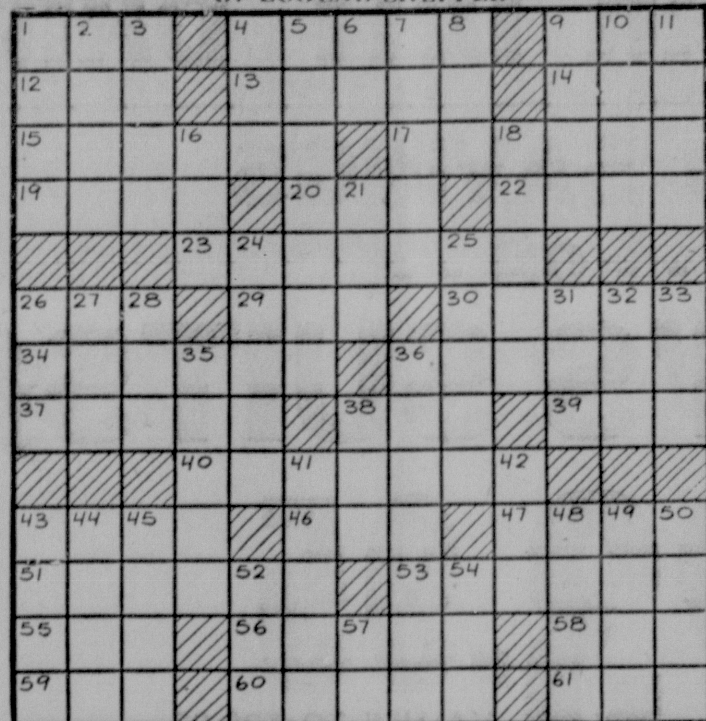

The army's rapid increase in size has created a shortage of trained bakers and cooks, she reports, and to fill the need for them sub-schools have been established for a two-month course after a recruit's 90 days of basic training is terminated.

Hitler Has Gone Too Far, Is Claim

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Hitler will have to expend so many men in the Russian war that England, perhaps with American aid, will be able to defeat the Nazis, according to the opinion of Colonel Everett L. Gardner, head of the Indiana Employment Security Division Review board.

Colonel Gardner spent five years in Russia, returning to this country in 1938.

"There is no doubt in my mind that one German can lick two Russians," Colonel Gardner said. "But that won't do much good in this case. The Russians have three or four men on the front lines now for every attacking German."

The Red Army also has much better morale than the Army of the Czar in the World war, he asserted.

"For the past 15 years, the soldiers in the Red Army have been given every consideration," Colonel Gardner declared. "They have better food, clothing and shelter than other Russians and even the parents of soldiers in the army are given special privileges that other people don't get. The soldiers in the old Czarist army were treated like serfs.

Colonel Gardner believes that the frequent purges of Russian army personnel have had little effect on efficiency of the army itself. He added that most of the officers purged were those who were obtaining sufficient political power in the army to make them dangerous to the Soviet party leaders.

"And there is another thing to realize about this war," Colonel Gardner said. "The Russian commanders feel just as does Hitler about human lives. They'll sacrifice any number of men to gain an objective."

Satisfaction

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. — Mrs. Howard Clare was irked when she shot a six on the par-three No. 10 hole at Terre Haute Country club in a tournament.

She finished the round and went back, vowing, "I'll master this hole!"

Her first practice shot on the 160-yard hole was an ace.

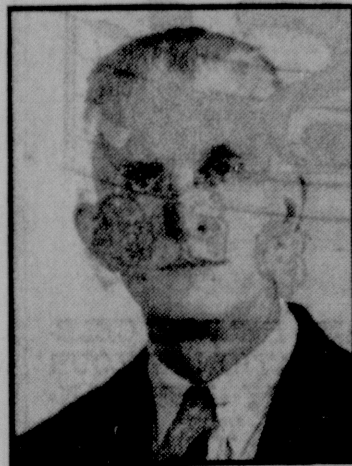

DON'T MAKE THE MISTAKE OF NOT GIVING TON JON A CHANCE TO HELP YOU TOO," SAYS THIS MAN

Constipation That Was So
Obstinate It Required Lax-

Stimulate Bowels Is Handed
Comforting Relief By TON
JON.

Mr. Emmet Ankrom, R. R. No. 1, Rayland, Ohio, near Steubenville, wants to add his name to the long list of boosters for TON JON. He says:

"I have had to take 3 laxatives a week for the last 5 years because of a very stubborn constipation. I was subject to very severe headaches, attacks of biliousness and dizziness. My stomach was quite bothersome and my appetite was laggy. Indigestion often resulted from my meals. Gas accumulated in my stomach extensively causing heartburn and shortness of breath. My nerves reached a high pitch, and in addition to my nervousness, loss of sleep made me feel worn out and rundown. Probably due to a kidney disorder, I had intense pains in my back and neck and my joints were stiff and sore. I was about 10 lbs. overweight and really needed a good tonic for my whole system."

"I began taking TON JON about four weeks ago and have been benefited remarkably and comfortably. I didn't realize that any medicine could correct constipation that was so obstinate, as thoroughly and quickly as TON JON has. Since I have gained relief from this, I do not have biliousness and dizzy attacks and gas formations are a thing of the past. I have been relieved of all my distress and can get a good, undisturbed night's rest. Don't make the mistake of not giving TON JON a chance to help you."

THE TON JON Health Representative is daily at the Broadway Lease Drug Store, Salem, Ohio. If you are sick and ailing, you owe it to yourself to at least try TON JON. (adv)

RESUMES ATTEMPT'S TO REVIVE DEAD

Dr. Cornish Plans to Use Sheep Instead of Dogs

BY GRADY JOHNSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
BEDKELEY, Cal. — The dogs that Dr. Robert E. Cornish gassed in his dramatic attempts to bring the dead to life did not die in vain, the 37-year-old research chemist now reports in revealing tangible benefits from the experiments and plans for another resuscitation project.

Out of the widely publicized experiments in 1934 on Lazarus V, a brown mongrel dog that was revived after apparent death, has come a special anti-hemorrhage pad which the Berkeley scientist says will prevent death from bleeding.

Cornish is trying to get the United States and British military authorities to adopt the pads for soldiers' first-aid kits. They already are being used successfully by many doctors and dentists and as first aid equipment on fire trucks and ambulances, he said.

Test Set for August

Still certain that he is on the threshold of solving science's ageless search for means of restoring life, Dr. Cornish is preparing what he believes will be his most important experiment. The test a practical first-aid method of reviving heart action of persons drowned, gassed or electrocuted.

Although he refused to divulge complete details of his plans until he has tested them, Dr. Cornish revealed his method would be entirely mechanical, involving, among other things, teetering and external manipulations. A sheep will be used in the tests instead of a dog to avoid protests from anti-vivisectionists.

For the first time, a fluoroscope will be used to observe heart action. It was borrowed by the scientist whose experiments for the outset have been hampered by limited funds.

Dr. Cornish intends to apply certain principles discovered while attempting revival in a pressure tank under four atmospheres pressure (43 pounds per square inch). He hopes also, he said, to turn to advantage knowledge of cardiac phenomena discovered through use of an electro-cardiograph. The dying heart, as well as an organ just restarted, he found, does not slow down or accelerate gradually. Instead, it acts much like musical overtones in that any acceleration of beat will successfully multiply itself by two while the pressure of the beat remains constant.

Drops Injection Technique

None of the intravenous stimulants that characterized earlier experiments will be used in the new test. Although injections were beneficial, Dr. Cornish said, they are impractical for emergency

Well, Well, Look Who's Here!

Remember Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyons, Hollywood movie favorites of yesterday? Well, here they are, working at a London movie studio. Bebe is "fitting" Ben with a dressing gown from the remains of a Nazi parachute dropped on London. Bebe and Ben, you know, are man and wife.

first aid because necessary equipment rarely is available when it is most needed.

It was the use of injections, however, that led to development of the anti-hemorrhage pad. Because Lazarus V lost considerable blood each time his veins were opened, need for a quick and effective means of checking the flow became acute.

Followed a long period of experimentation for a soft, yet liquid-proof, dressing. Finally Dr. Cornish decided on a pad of soft, resilient Tasmanian wool, vegetable oil, calcium soap and camphor. The pads are especially effective for staunching severed arteries in torso wounds where tourniquets cannot be used, he reports.

In testing the pad, a sheep's throat was cut from ear to ear. The animal is alive and healthy now.

It was in the spring of 1934 that the University of California scientist stirred the imagination of the world with his work.

Lazarus I Spared

Cornish's first subject, Lazarus I, was saved from the operating table by a laboratory assistant who couldn't resist the dog's pleading eyes. Lazarus II took his place and was put to death with nitrogen. Five minutes after his heart stopped beating he was brought back to life by teetering and injections of a solution of adrenalin, the liver extract heparin and the blood of another dog saturated in oxygen. He seemed to be doing well until glycogen, intended to hasten his recovery was injected. After eight hours of second life he died. The glycogen had caused a blood clot.

Lazarus III was revived eight minutes after his heart stopped. He lived only five hours. An autopsy showed no blood clot.

Lazarus IV was revived four minutes after his heart stopped and, although he lived a fortnight, never fully recovered.

Dog Lived Year

The next experiment was by far the most successful. Lazarus V lived more than a year but his brain was unpaired and he was nearly blind. He finally died of pneumonia.

The public lost interest but not Dr. Cornish. Twelve other dogs and sheep followed the Lazarus line to death, then life, and irrevocable death again. While research funds from the university and a government agency were cut off, Dr. Cornish managed to carry on with money derived from a motion picture of the tests. When those funds were exhausted, the determined young scientist financed his efforts with his income as a consulting chemist.

Nazis Could Bomb America From Air

DETROIT — The United States can be bombed and invaded from the air, George R. Hutchinson, dean of American flyers piloting bombers to England, believes.

"At present we could not prevent an enemy from sending as many as 2,000 large bombers, each carrying 20 fully equipped men, non-stop across the ocean," Hutchinson stated in a recent talk here.

Hutchinson, who has piloted scores of bombers to England is on a lecture tour at present, under a leave of absence from flying duty.

"These planes," said the flyer, "could fly non-stop in 10 or 12 hours to New York. They could come in the dark, land troops and materials with black parachutes, after cutting their motors and dropping to 1,000 feet.

"I am not saying this will be done, but that it is possible," Hutchinson insisted. "It would be far easier for Nazi planes to land troops or materials in the United States than in England." England is a compact garrison. The United States is too great to protect. How could we dislodge invaders from our own territories without killing many of our citizens?"

Hutchinson stated the British expect the war to last from six to ten years, and are preparing for a lengthy fight.

Hutchinson indicated he will fly vitamin pills to England on his next trip.

Saxons Upset SWOC, 9-7, As Recreation Routs China, 13-5

SIX CIO ERRORS CAUSE DOWNFALL, 2ND SAXON WIN

Mike Schuller Turns In Season's Best Batting: 2 Homers, Double, Single

The Saxons aren't often the team to beat. But they're always a team to watch. The irrepressible outfit either wins gloriously, loses disastrously, or just walks off the field and doesn't play at all. As far as the Saxons are concerned, mediocrity is the cardinal sin.

Last night they were good. You might say the SWOC was bad if it hadn't been that you already said Driscollwood was off when the Saxons beat them earlier this round. So it must be that the Saxons are good.

They edged out the SWOC 9-7 last night with a five-run fifth-inning and with eight well-placed hits. Though Pauline granted nine hits to the CIO team, his mates played their six errors to advantage. The win gives the Saxons a 1,000 standing in the third and final round of city softball.

But the standout individual performance of the evening went to Mike Schuller of the Recreation. Schuller sparked a 13-5 Recreation rout of the Salem China by driving out two home runs, a double and a single to cross the plate four times in four times at bat. The record hasn't been equalled this season.

Myers and Earley also climbed onto the hitting bandwagon as they each drove out a double for the winners. Scullion and Criss, meanwhile, poled out a home run and a double, respectively, for the Ware Workers.

TRIBE IS SWAMPED BY 11-RUN INNING

Tigers Tie Record As 17 Batters Go To Plate In Third

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Aug. 7.—Smarting under the humiliation of Detroit's 11-run inning, the Indians went after the rubber game of their series today in a snarling mood.

Bob Feller was selected to bring revenge against the Tigers, who called on Johnny Gorsica. The Cleveland fireballer sought his 2:21 victory.

The 11 runs, chased across the plate in a third-inning assault on three pitchers, were all the Bengals needed to give Al Benton a 11 to 2 victory. The scoring spree set a record for the season.

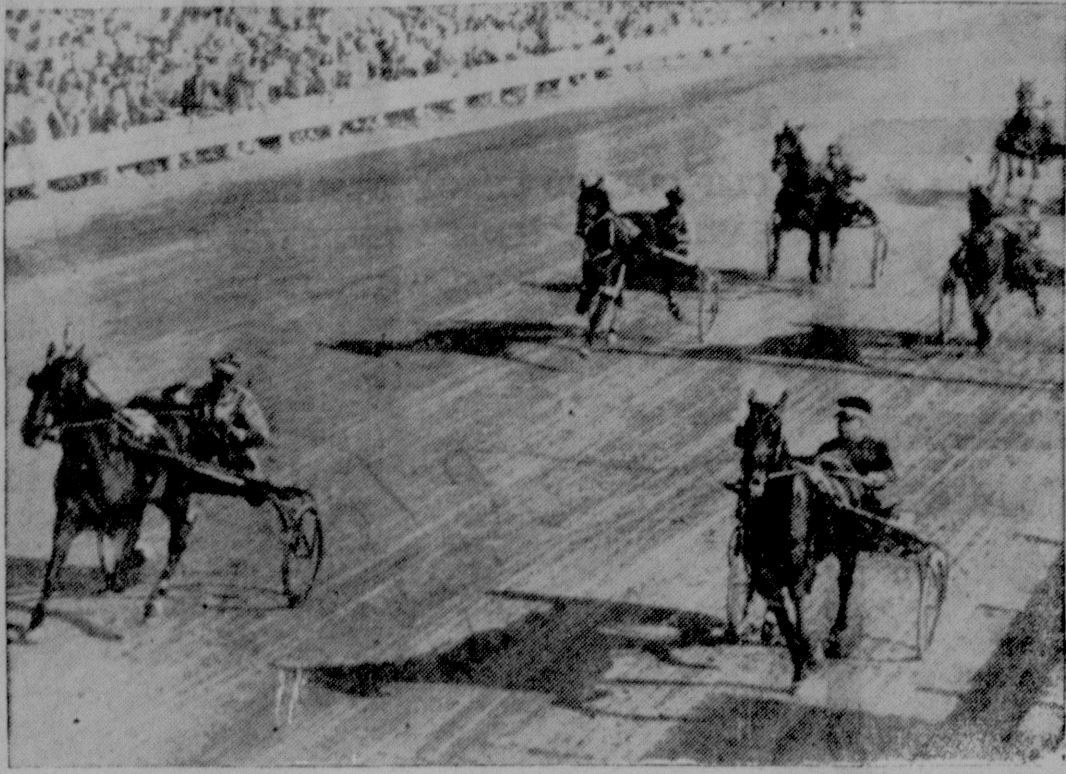

Cleveland managed to tally twice in the seventh on singles by Oscar Grimes and Rolfe Hemsley and Ray Mack's double.

Jim Bagby started for the Indians and moved along without trouble until the third. Al Miller couldn't stop the outbreak, with Joe Kraskauskas finally getting the third man out after 17 batters had gone to the plate.

Kraskauskas went on to do a neat relief job, giving up only two hits in 4 1-3 innings.

SKEET SHOOTERS SET NEW RECORDS

Shotgun Aces Blast Four Old Marks, Tie Two, To Revise Record Book

(By Associated Press)
INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 7.—Intent on rewriting the entire record book after setting four new marks and tying two others in six attempts yesterday, the country's leading skeet shooters were set today for another six-title bout in the seventh annual National Skeet championships.

Up for decision over the 12-field layout, biggest in National tournament history, were the all-gauge junior and sub-junior competitors, the former for youths under 17 and the latter for those under 13; and the 20-gauge events for men, women, professionals and families, the latter a two-person team event made up of father-son, father-daughter, husband-wife, sister-brother, etc.

Although he isn't expected to take the top spot, 10-year-old Joe Devers of Dayton, O., youngest entrant in this year's tourney, will be the object of many eyes during the sub-junior race.

Patricia Laursen, the 19-year-old Akron miss whose opening day performance was far under par, defends the women's championship, with Leslie Webb of Richmond, Va., attempting to retain his professional title.

Yesterday's opening barrage saw new champions enthralled. Alex Kerr, 28-year-old sporting goods proprietor from Beverly Hills, Calif., cracked 99 of 100 to take the men's sub-small-gauge title.

Mrs. M. L. Smythe of Aurora, O., won the women's title in the same 410 gauge event with 89 of 100, while Grant Ilse of Chicago, 15, fired mail order house ammunition, made it three straight records by breaking the professional mark by four targets with 96.

WEMBLEY, Eng.—A shopkeeper at Wembley, Middlesex, has asked the local food control committee to remove a woman from his list of registered customers. He says she causes trouble, grumbles too much, abuses the assistants. So he doesn't want her trade. The committee has tabled the request.

GALLON ROMPS TO GOSHEN VICTORY

Defeats His Excellency by Three Lengths In Hambletonian

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Help! Help! Here's a chance for you guys to do a good turn for the defense program. Earl Ruby of the Louisville Courier-Journal proposes football teams for army camps and plants doing defense work to compete against each other. Senator Happy Chandler has agreed to sponsor a trophy if leagues can be organized. They would like to hear some good ideas on how to set up the program.

That talk about Joe DiMaggio getting $80,000 next year gives everybody a laugh. Just the same he's already getting a whole lot more than the $35,000 he was supposed to have signed for last winter. Joe is no dumb gazabo. He knows when he's well paid. He may ask for a healthy raise, but not in Babe Ruth's class.

The Port Side of It
Left-handers have been more effective than right-handers in the American association this year.... The only club which has a winning percentage against both pitching styles in Louisville.... Leave it up to us kernal, huh!

Sports Cocktail
Connie Mack has conceded the pennant to the Yankees. He told us as much at the World series last year.... He picks his own A's to finish in the first division.... Lou Nova, still vacationing in Maine, thinks he can knock Louis out in less than ten rows.... If you want to get down a good bet on the National Singles tennis championship, take Riggs, although bridegroom Frankie Kovacs has plenty of backing.... Pete Fox, who hit three doubles in a game Tuesday for the Red Sox, hadn't made an extra base blow till last week.... Both the Reds and Red Sox have decided to pass up exhibition games in Havana next spring.

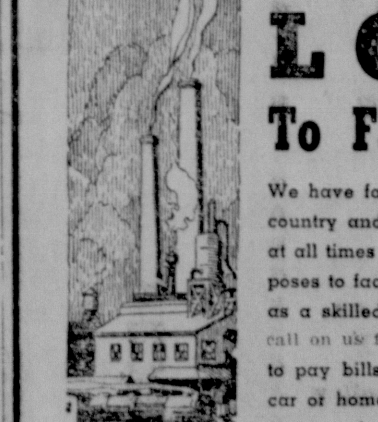

Today's Guest Star
Lynn C. Doyle, Philadelphia Evening Bulletin: "Boston wants the Louis-Nova entertainment.... Now that Grove has his 300, they want to look at a fellow who can really pitch."

Pitcher Wanted
How's this for an all-star team composed of National league managers.... Jimmy Wilson, catcher; Bill Terry, first base; Frankie Frisch, second base; Leo Durocher, shortstop; Bill McKechnie, third base; Bill Southworth, Doc Prothro and Casey Stengel, outfielders.... They would have to pick up a pitcher someplace.

DODGERS BOUNCE BACK INTO FIRST IN NATIONAL RACE

Six-Game Winning Streak Puts Brooks 3 Points Ahead of Cards

(By Associated Press)
Somebody always is rocking the boat in the National league. The boys ride along on an even keel for a couple of days and then, just when the fans take a deep breath of satisfaction, the jitters start bouncing.

Today the Brooklyn Dodgers have bounced back into first place with a six-game winning streak and a margin of three percentage points over the St. Louis Cardinals, while the Pittsburgh Pirates, yesterday nine games out of first place, today are only eight away and still spouting fire and fury.

The Cardinals backed out of the scene by losing a 5-1 struggle to the Cincinnati Reds, whose south-paw star, Johnny Vander Meer, limited the Cards to eight hits, fanned nine and walked seven.

The important factor, however, was a three-run homer by Mike McCormick. It was the first one a Cincinnati player had hit since July 20.

With the score of Cincinnati's conquest posted on the big black board in the Polo Grounds, the Dodgers stormed out in front of 52,791 New York fans last night and downed the Giants 3-1.

Camilli Homers
Dolph Camilli hit his 20th home run in the second inning and after that the game was a pitching duel between Kirby Higbe and Carl Hubbell. Finally in the ninth inning the irrepressible Dodgers broke through Hubbell's masterful hurling for the deciding runs.

The Pirates achieved their fifth straight and 17th triumph in 20 games by overwhelming the Chicago Cubs 13-3. The Buccaners belted 13 hits, one of which was a home run by Pitcher Trust (Rip) Sewell, who coasted to victory.

Braves Shuntout Phillies
Five-hit hurling by Manny Salvo brought the Boston Braves a 6-0 shutout against the Phillies in another night game.

The New York Yankees divided a doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox, but still managed to increase their big American league lead by a half game through Cleveland's loss to Detroit.

Tex Hughson and Mike Ryba held the Yanks to six hits in the first game, two of them homers by Joe DiMaggio and Joe Gordon, as the Red Soxers smashed to a 6-3 victory. Hughson hurt his arm in the third inning and Ryba finished to take credit for the victory. In the nightcap Marvin Breuer held Boston to five hits and DiMaggio doubled two runs across in the sixth inning for the margin of a 3-1 triumph.

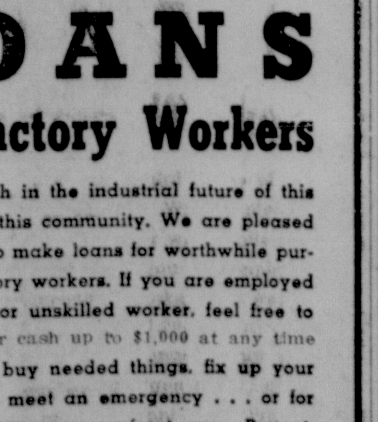

Tigers Score 11 In Third
The Detroit Tigers scored 11 runs in one tremendous third inning explosion to beat the Indians 11-2. The big rally, tying an American league record, brought 17 Tigers to bat before they were stopped.

The St. Louis Browns made use of a five-run fourth inning to take the first game of their doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox, 9-6, but Lefty Thornton Lee came back with a six-hit pitching job to give the Sox the second, 5-2.

Washington whipped the Philadelphia Athletics 5-1 in a night game.

Seven Stark County Schools Are Headed By New Football And Basketball Instructors

CANTON, Aug. 7.—Stark county, scholastic sports hotbed for both A and B schools, will find a whole flock of new coaches directing the destinies of its teams this fall and winter.

Starting with the resignation of Paul Brown at Massillon to become coach at Ohio State university and of Johnny Reed at Canton McKinley to become coach at Monessen, Pa., the resignations continued until seven village and township high schools were affected.

Latest resignations in the epidemic include those of Wade H. Watts, son of Ray Watts, Baldwin-Wallace tutor, who left Middlebranch High as head coach to take a teaching job in Lorain county; Watson A. Rehn, who left Canal Fulton High to teach football and basketball at Chester, W. Va.; and Wilbur A. (Rabbit) Rapp, who is quitting Jackson Township High to coach football, basketball and track at Versailles, O. High school. Both Rehn and Rapp played football at Ohio university, the former having captained the team in his last year.

Harry Dutka, recent Ashland college graduate, will succeed Harold D. Shaffer as football and basketball coach at Marlboro High. Shaffer joined the Akron school system.

At Canton Township High school, Charles Ash, former Ohio Northern athlete, replaced Ted Arnold as coach, the latter having joined the Y. M. C. A. staff here. Ash was coach at West Alexandria and Haviland, O.

John Morgan, Beach City High coach, resigned to join the Massillon school system and teach a Junior High football team.

Kenny Kate, Wooster college athlete, was signed to succeed Robert Markley as coach at Hartsville High. At present, vacancies include the basketball job at Canton Tinker Vocational High, where Myron Prech resigned to coach this sport at Mount Vernon, and the coaching posts at Middlebranch, Beach City, Jackson Township and Canal Fulton High.

Floyd Schwartzwalder, the former Parkersburg, W. Va., football coach stepped into the shoes of Coach Reed at Canton McKinley and Bud Houghton is ready to protect the grid prestige at Massillon High in place of Brown, aided by a staff comprised largely of former Massillon boys who have ended their college careers. Replacements were needed for Mel Knowlton and Howard Brinker, now coaches at Steubenville High, and Fritz Heister, Hugh McGranahan and Carroll C. Widdoes, who went with Brown to Ohio State.

Herb Hackenberg's resignation this week also left a basketball coaching vacancy at Canton Lehman. Hackenberg planned to take a job in private industry.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

Tony Worth paused to listen outside the door he had just locked. The trick that Eric Thelme had played on him still rankled. Northheim was behind it, of course. Tony had been expecting something of the sort, but not from Eric. Even more than Hoto's deader meth-ods, this showed Tony how sinister the situation on the yacht must be. Evidently, being in the harbor of Cannes was no protection.

Now the tides were turned, for the time at least. Fritz was in there, trapped as Tony had been, without power of movement or voice. And Tony had the keys to the Northheim suite. It was more than he had hoped for, so far. Yet he hesitated to go up on the main deck until he was sure the coast was clear. The Jap had to be accounted for, the wireless-room taken over.

And it wasn't enough to enter Northheim's rooms. There were the files, the proofs the F. B. I. man wanted, and they were stored in padlocked cabinets. When you got right down to it, it would be the devil of a job.

Tony made slowly for the stairs. He had been pretty cocky about going it on his own. But was it fair to Captain Buckner? The Captain was 100 per cent; he should have trusted him long ago. He heard a door opening behind him, and came around with his fists up. Someone gave a little cry, more like a squeak.

Eve Pryne, in a flowered gown and large floppy hat, had stepped out of her room at the far end of the corridor. Her china blue eyes were fixed on Tony, not in fright but with guilt. Her mouth rounded on an "Oh!"

Tony lowered his arms. "Where's Marie?" he demanded.

Eve's red lips quivered. Tony Worth was the last person she wanted to see. "I never take things to make me sleep," she began, defiantly. "I was so upset last night, though, when you left, that I had to. My watch stopped, and I rang and rang. That stewardess never answered, and I haven't had any breakfast, and—"

Tony seized her by the arm. "I can tell by your face," he accused. "You've let Marie go on shore alone—or worse still, with Lippi."

"I don't know," Mrs. Pryne wailed. "She isn't in her cabin. You're hurting me."

Tony let her go. He felt stunned. There was no use exhorting Eve. His gray eyes told her what he thought of her. He walked along the corridor and tried Marie's door. It opened at his touch. Eve followed him in, babbling.

"The idea of both Hortense and Mrs. Crowder rushing off like this. One of them could have answered my bell. I rang for hours."

Tony turned his back on her. Everything in the room spoke intimately, exquisitely of Marie. His throat tightened as he stared at a photograph of Judge Fairchild on her desk. To think that this grand old man had paid him—paid him to save a girl he—Tony—loved! Eve fluttered around him, her high voice troubled. "She's all right, Tony. I'm sure I don't know why you're so worried. After all, the Marchese can't kidnap her, can he? I'll be at the Casino at twelve and lunch with them just as I promised you I would." She stared at him. He was haggard, and he wasn't dressed for Cannes; not in those old slacks and without a coat. Eve felt suddenly terribly sorry for him. "Get on some things, and come with me. There's no sense in your moping around here."

"I can't leave," Tony answered wearily. A torture of indecision worked through his nerves. He fingered the keys he had taken from Fritz. Every second, every moment counted.

"I can't," Tony said again. "But I meant what I said last night. For Heaven's sake hurry and find her!"

He almost pushed Eve out of the door, walking with her to the stairs. "And listen, do one more thing for me. Get hold of Captain Buckner—I'm sure he's on board. Tell him to come down here at once. Tell him it's urgent. Tell him—oh, just tell him I've got to see him down here."

"I wish you wouldn't be so mysterious," Eve murmured, but she went off, all afluster.

Tony waited, his brow fretting, his mouth tight. He was sure now that this was the right, the sensible thing to do. Get help while he could. He was supposed to be hog-tied in his room—he hadn't thought that. If Hoto spotted him on deck.

Captain Buckner didn't come. Tony went up. There was no one on the main deck, so he took a chance. He ducked into the passageway, between the Serena's living room, which no one ever used, and Felix Northheim's suite. Then only did he draw a long breath.

He bent to the lock with Fritz's key, and he slipped into the first room which Ray had described.

The air was indescribably stale because of the windows Northheim would never allow opened. But the morning light streamed through reflecting shapes in the mirrors set in the aluminum walls. On the red lacquered surface of a table stood a vase of silken red carnations. Tony shuddered when he looked at them, remembering the one the Baroness Lascar had worn in Corfu. And the white carnations which warned of death.

Ray Sheldon had said, "It wasn't so much what I saw as what I felt." That was it. The place stank of evil. . . . of overwhelming menace! There was a bolt on the door. Almost without thinking, Tony pecked himself in. It was an ordinary door, he noticed, its panels fantastically painted as a final morient touch.

The image flashed into Tony's mind of Felix Northheim, his slave features endlessly repeated in the mirrors, and he was sickened by it.

He made for a second door and stopped.

Someone was in the outside companionway he had just left. He heard the faint scrape of a key. Luck that he had drawn the bolt! Who could it be but Hoto, since Northheim and Lippi were in Cannes? Tony tiptoed back.

"Please to open, Mr. Worth!" It was Hoto, and his clipped voice penetrated where his key had failed. "Better for not to be foolish."

"There was no point now in pretending. Tony put his mouth to the panel. "This is an American ship," he said. "And Captain Buckner commands her. He knows where I am."

"Most invaluable information," Hoto's was the usual bland tone. "So sorry. The honorable Captain and his excellent officers are regretfully being unable to come here. They are under the humble but imperative gun of Mr. Mitzel."

The door seemed to melt and grow solid again, as Tony stared at the panels. So that was why Captain Buckner hadn't turned up. And Eve—silly Eve—wouldn't have noticed anything strange in Chief Engineer Mitzel being with the Captain when she delivered the oral message from Worth.

Tony said loudly, "Well, you've done it this time, Hoto! It's mutiny, and we're in harbor. You must be crazy to think you can get away with it. How did you know I was in here?"

Hoto giggled. "I go to say good-morning to you, and find Fritz. It is not benevolent of you, Mr. Worth, to be treating Fritz so painfully." He waited. Tony didn't answer. There was nothing to say. They had

Captain Buckner, Middleton, Swan. They had him, cornered.

"Better to open," Hoto softly urged.

"I will not!" Tony shouted. "You don't dare shoot. We're not on any high seas. Just try making any noise and see what happens. You know what's in here. You know why I'm in here. D'you want to commit suicide?"

"So sorry," Suddenly Hoto spoke in very good English, but with a steamy sibilance that fairly hissed through the door. "You cannot get out, Mr. Worth, without passing me. Captain Buckner cannot give more orders on this boat. Miss Schuyler cannot come back, because she is . . . gone. It is far wiser that you give in or else. . . . I shall be obliged to persuade Captain Buckner to give you such an order."

Tony waited until he could control his voice. "Don't think Miss Schuyler is unprotected," he said at last. "And don't forget you're dealing with the U. S. A.—something you and your gang better remember."

Hoto's giggle floated back. Then there was silence.

Felix Northheim and the Marchese Lippi waited on the Croisette until they saw Marie go into a coiffeur shop. Then Northheim turned his pale eyes on his blond companion.

"We have little time," he said. "Haensel and Vorodkin expect me at the Carlton around eleven. I have waited until now, Nino, to tell you of my arrangements. They are, I think, perfect." He touched the red carnation in the buttonhole of the blue coat which so smartly fitted his thicket body. "You will not interrupt me, Nino. The Serena is now in Hoto's charge."

Northheim looked complacently across at the white yacht on the sparkling blue waters of the harbor. Resting close to her, its wings silvery in the sunshine, was his plane, the Aquila.

"All those whom I do not wish on board tonight will find themselves unavoidably detained in Cannes. After dark, my papers will be transferred to the seaplane—the pilot has orders to proceed to Monte Carlo. I fear then that something in the boiler room will explode. It is really too bad to sacrifice such a boat, but what would you?" Northheim shook his head sadly. "Our friend Tony, Captain Buckner and his officers, alas, must go."

"But the law!" Nino Lippi exclaimed in horror.

"Accident, my boy!" Northheim thrust out his broad lip. "Come—come, you are not growing soft when you will soon have such a lovely wife." The emerald of his ring glinted as he handed Lippi a slip of paper and a small box.

"You know what you have to do after lunch. You suggest a drive to Miss Schuyler. You take my car. On that paper is a map of the hills behind Cannes. You will have the break-down near Suquet—a romantic spot. Then tea at the Inn—one of these little tablets slipped into her cup, and your fiancée will feel sleepy, perhaps ill."

"She will sleep until morning in the room my friend, the innkeeper, provides for her. You register for both. Quite by chance, in the morning, I turn up with Haensel and Vorodkin for breakfast. Surprise!" Northheim smiled. "The register, the witnesses—I think you will find she will marry you quickly. Very crude, but these simple formulas are sometimes the best."

"I do not like that," Lippi murmured. "You are too cunning—I ought to—"

"I think not," Northheim interjected. "Should you be so foolish as to rebel, Hoto would—as the English say—carry on. Accidents do happen, you know. Really now, my boy, I must go to my appointment." The "Mongolian" waved amicably and walked away with his mincing gait.
